

COLOR OF THE DAY: BLACK

Literacy Tip: Children have very active brains and learn by repetition. The more stimulation they receive from their environment, what they hear, touch, taste, and smell, the more connections are made between their brain cells. After a while, there are so many connections, that the ones that are not used fade. Through repetition, connections are reinforced and made strong. Repeat songs and rhymes at home or in the car--plus, it makes learning fun!
